Recent Part V Research Reports and Projects is an amalgamation of two reports.

The first section contains abstracts of reports received by the Canadian Housing Information Centre during the past three months.

Ongoing and recently completed research projects are listed by responsibility centre in the second section.

The project identification number (PIDN) is the link identifying reports and projects. Cross references to the corresponding pages are given.

For more information concerning the availability of reports and the status of projects, please contact Margaret Ahearn, Canadian Housing Information Centre, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Montreal Road, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0P7, Tel. (613) 748-2363.

Rapports et projets de recherche récents en vertu de la Partie V est l'unification de deux rapports.

La première section renferme des extraits de rapports que le Centre canadian de documentation sur l'habitation a reçus au cours des trois dernier mois.

La deuxième section comporte une énumération, par centre de responsabilité de projets de recherche en cours ou récemment terminés. C'est le numéro d'identification du projet qui sert de lien entre les rapports et les projets. On y indique des renvois aux pages correspondantes.

Pour de plus amples renseignements au sujet de la disponibilité des rapports et de la situation des projets, prière de communiquer avec Margaret Ahearn, Centre canadien de documentation sur l'habitation, Société canadienne d'hypothèques et de logement, Chemin Montréal, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0P7, tél.: (613) 748-2363.

AGED/VIEILLARDS

29538 Campbell, E. Jane. Spatial Segregation of the Aged in an Urban Setting. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Willowdale, Ont.: Malone Given Parsons Ltd., 1983. HD 7287.92 C3C34

Research concerning residential segregation on the basis of age has pointed out the existence of "geriatric ghettoes". This discovery has raised certain questions about the nature of the neighbourhoods in which these unplanned concentrations of older persons are located, the process giving rise to this pattern of age-segregation, and the characteristics of the aging populations found in these settings.

This research addressed these issues by focusing on two aspects of spatial segregation of the aged: the demographic and environmental structures of neighbourhoods and the characteristics of the elderly persons living in areas with both high and low old-age concentrations.

11155 Kling, Sidney and Fuerstenberg, Adam. Senior Citizen Housing Development in Metropolitan Toronto: the Role of Individual Religious Congregations. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. [Toronto]: Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, 1983.

The present study attempts to examine one of the alternatives for coping with future housing needs of seniors. It examines housing for seniors initiated and/or provided by individual religious congregations in the largest metropolitan area in Canada. The justification for this research lies in the dearth of information on the nature of housing specifically designed, and available, for senior citizens.

Until the present, the major thrust of research on aging has emphasized the medical, psychological and sociological aspects of aging while largely ignoring the physical and environmental needs of older Canadians.

1396 Orr, Kevin. The Process of Developing Sponsored Senior Citizens' Housing Projects. Prepared for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation and Manitoba Council on Aging. [S.l: s.n.] 1982. — Cal MH 82P66

The nature of the work was to prepare a comprehensive guide which details the development of senior citizen housing from the design and financing stages through to the construction and management phase. The report is intended to be used by all sponsor groups of senior citizen subsidized housing by better identifying and articulating the appropriate procedures to follow to develop the required housing.

APARTMENT HOUSES/IMMEUBLES D'HABITATION

2667 Hamlett, Poddubiuk & Associates Ltd. Cost Analysis of Basement - vs - non Basement Units in Walk-up Apartments. Montreal: The Associates, 1982. — Cal MH 82C50

This report examines estimated construction costs for similar walk-up apartment buildings. The buildings incorporate basement apartments, basement apartments with patios and ground floor level apartments with patios.

The report discusses only the buildings' features such as entrance steps, access ramps, patios, sewer and water connections. Excluded from the investigation are costs to the developers such as land, design fees, public services, financing, siteworks, promotion, insurance, appliances, etc.

ARCHITECTURE/ARCHITECTURE

20925 Leaning, John and Fortin, Lyette. The Architectural Heritage of Ottawa. Draft. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Ottawa, 1983. — Cal MH 83A65

The material for this book was first worked on in 1981 as a joint project of Heritage Ottawa and the National Capital Commission, resulting in the pamphlet "The Domestic Heritage of Ottawa".

PIDN

LC OR CODOC

The present study expands this work to cover all aspects of Ottawa's architectural heritage excluding the modern era after the First World War, relating it to the physical development of the city fabric and to the development of construction traditions in Ottawa.

BICYCLES/BICYCLETTES

21378 Thom, Robert G. Residential Land Use Patterns and Bicycle Use. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Winnipeg: Department of Civil Engineering, The University of Manitoba, 1983. GV 1043.7 T44

The objectives of this study were:

- to characterize typical residential layouts in Canadian cities and to assess their suitability for bicycle use.
- to identify problems involved in providing bicycle facilities in residential areas and to suggest possible solutions.
- to assess the effect of various housing schemes on the parking and storage of bicycles.

CONDOMINIUMS/COPROPRIÉTÉ

2316 Lambert, Nantel, Langlais, Hurtubise et Associés. Étude sur la spéculation dans les projets en copropriété divise de la région de Montréal. Montréal: Les Associés, 1983. Cal MH 83E77

Le mandat de ce projet était de mesurer et d'analyser le phénomène de la spéculation dans les logements en copropriété divise de la région de Montréal.

Au stade préliminaire du projet d'étude, il fut convenu de tirer profit d'une enquête que s'apprêtait à réaliser la SCHL auprès de tous les projets complétés en copropriété et non enquêtés en 1980. Le programme de travail qui en résulta comprend les trois étapes suivantes:

1. Reviser le questionnaire de l'enquête 1980 sur la copropriété divise afin d'y incorporer des questions relatives au phénomène de la spéculation, ce qui fut fait en mai 1982.

2. Définir les tableaux nécessaires pour analyser les résultats de l'enquête.

3. Analyser les résultats de l'enquête.

CRIME PREVENTION/CRIMES - PRÉVENTION

91363 The Environmental Design and Management (EDM) Approach to Crime Prevention in Residential Environments. A report prepared for the Research Division, Department of the Solicitor General, Canada and the Technical Research Division, Policy Development and Research Sector, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation by the Consortium of Urban Design Consultants and the Research Group. [S.l.: s.n.] 1982.

NOTE: A limited number of copies were made available to CMHC. An abridged edition of this report will be available for general distribution in approximately two months.

This study examined the nature and applicability of an approach to preventing crime through modifications to the environment in which it occurs -- the Environmental Design and Management (EDM) approach. While drawing upon various antecedents, such as "defensible space" and "Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED)", the EDM approach reflects the most current views on how crime in residential environments can be most effectively prevented through a balanced combination of strategies aimed at modifying both the design and management of the residential environment. It is primarily because of this equal weighting of design and management components that the EDM approach differs from its antecedents.

DISABLED/HANDICAPÉS

21600 Canadian Rehabilitation Council for the Disabled. Housing and Support Services for Physically Disabled Persons in Canada. 2nd. rev. ed. Toronto: The Council, 1982. — HV 3024 C3H65

CMHC provided partial funding for the publication of this directory. Copies are available from: CRCD, Suite 2110, One Yonge St., Toronto, Ont., M5E 1E5.

This directory is intended to be an overview of housing options available to physically disabled persons across Canada. Its purpose is not to provide a complete listing of existing projects, although every attempt was made to locate and contact as many as possible. Rather, the directory is a reference tool to give the reader a place to start in locating accessible housing and appropriate support services. The information is listed alphabetically by city, province by province. Within each city, information may be found under three categories: Housing, Support Services and Information Services.

15479 Clifton, Doyle and Hamilton, Nancy. A Preliminary Evaluation of a Transitional House for Severely Handicapped Children. Final Report and Appendices. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. [S.l: s.n.] 1983? — HV 1569.2 C2C5

Transitional Housing for severely disabled children has evolved from the belief that small community based homes can be designed to meet health and developmental needs of these children. The intent of this research project was to examine the function of Transitional Housing and to demonstrate that severely handicapped children can remain healthy and develop skills in a "non-institutional" and "non-medical" environment. Documentation from the Hartman House program indicates that this is the case.

12120 Cluff, Pamela J. Accessible Residential Communities: Issues and Solutions. Prepared for Policy Evaluation Division, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Toronto: Associated Planning Consultants, 1982. Cal MH44 82A17

This report:

- identifies and details the problems and issues that arise in trying to achieve communities in which disabled persons can live independently and manage by themselves to the best of their ability;
- documents the problematic features and successful strategies of existing legislation, support programs, financing mechanisms and administrative practices that affect the livability of housing units for disabled persons;
- identifies the lines of responsibility in dealing with these issues to aid in the provision of accessible (barrier-free) community environments, supportive of housing for disabled persons as well as all other groups.

DOORS/PORTES

2817 Forintek Canada Corp. Evaluation of Reinforced Exterior Cedar Plank Doors for Resistance to Forced Entry. Prepared for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Ottawa: Forintek, 1982.

The principal objective of this test series was to determine the performance from a physical security point of view of reinforced exterior cedar plank doors. The test conditions are described in the report.

The results indicated that the performance of the steel rods and bar-reinforced doors had increased by 33 percent, while the use of batten extension and hardwood lumber was ineffective. Overall, none of the modifications led to an increase in performance great enough to change the security grade level of the doors.

14399 Forintek Canada Corp. Testing of Metal Door Frame for Resistance to Forced Entry. Prepared for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Ottawa: Forintek, 1982.

The principal objective of this test series was to determine the performance from a physical security point of view of a reinforced metal door frame. The test conditions are described in the report. The results of the study indicate that the resistance of such a frame to jamb spreading could possibly be more than doubled by filling the space behind the jambs at lock height with ordinary concrete.

EMERGENCY HOUSING/LOGEMENT DE SECOURS

16279 Clancey, S. Douglas. Post Nuclear Attack Temporary Housing: Literature Review and Preliminary Recommendations. Prepared for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. [S.l.: s.n.] 1982. Cal MH 82P55

The purpose of this study is to review existing data and suggest areas of future study concerning the provision of post nuclear attack temporary housing. This report examines the issue of temporary housing in the event of a nuclear attack. Within the overall scope of civil defence there will be a need to provide adequate housing for thousands of displaced individuals and families. As a start to understanding the problem of providing this housing, it would appear that one of the first steps would be a review of existing data bases and the identification of areas requiring further research.

1745 Bennie, Stewart. Monitoring Energy Efficient Senior Citizen Accommodation, Montague, Prince Edward Island. Prepared for Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation and the Prince Edward Island Housing Corporation. Charlottetown: Institute of Man and Resources, 1982. Cal MH 82M52

The purpose of this monitoring program was to:

- determine the energy performance of senior citizens housing units constructed by the P.E.I. Housing Corporation during 1980-81;

PIDN

- determine operational savings in the 1980-81 units which can be attributed to increased emphasis on energy efficient construction;

- determine the cost-effectiveness of the energy efficient design and construction elements incorporated in these units;

- assess the performance of the air-to-air heat exchange system incorporated in the 1980-81 units; and

- based on the findings of the proposed study, to recommend to the P.E.I. Housing Corporation, design, construction and management options which will be cost-effective in future construction programs.

24547 Auld, John W. The Transfer of European Housing Information Relating to Products and Practices: Problems and Potential. Guelph, Ont.: Department of Consumer Studies, University of Guelph, 1983. Cal MH 83T65

The objectives of the study were:

- to establish whether or not European housing products, technology, and practices could be relevant to Canadian housing.
- to identify sources of information about such European products.
- to indicate how information could be made available to the Canadian housing industry.

28498 L'Atelier de ressources techniques en habitation. Étude sur l'avenir de la maison unifamiliale vis-à-vis les autres formes de propriété dans les grands centres urbains au Québec. Montréal: L'Atelier, 1982.

Le mandat du projet consiste principalement à fournir un éclairage sur les éléments fondamentaux pouvant influencer l'avenir des maisons unifamiliales dans la banlieue par rapport aux autres formes d'habitation dans le noyau urbain. L'étude analyse aussi jusqu'à quel point la nature permanente ou passagère de certaines tendances récentes comme le "retour à la ville" et la dissociation entre la propriété et la maison unifamiliale traditionnelle, pourraient affecter le volume d'affaires de la SCHL et le risque hypothécaire à l'égard des maisons unifamiliales de banlieue.

14043	Brien, Nicole. Household Facilities and Equipment Survey 1982: Final Report on the Quality of Data for CMHC Questions. Ottawa: Census and Household Survey Methods Division, Statistics Canada, 1983. CMHC sponsored three questions on physical house condition, repair and energy improvement activity on the 1982 Survey of Household Facilities and Equipment (HFE) conducted by Statistics Canada. The results of the survey appear in Statistics Canada, 64-202 Annual, Household Facilities and Equipment, May 1982. Statistics Canada evaluated the quality of data obtained from the CMHC questions through analyses of: (1) field observations, (2) debriefing questionnaires, (3) failure rates to the edit rules, (4) imputation and response rates, (5) non-respondents, and (6) standard errors. The report concluded that the quality of the data should not have been seriously affected at any stage of the survey and that the estimates provided by the three questions are fairly reliable. 21261 Klodawsky, Fran; Spector, A.N., and Hendrix, C. The Housing Needs of Single Parent Families in Canada. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. [Kingston, Ont.: Department of Geography, Queen's University] 1983. — Cal MH 83H55

The object of this work has been to obtain a clear picture of the problems which the single parent family faces in the realm of housing. A two-fold approach was taken. First, available literature on the topic was reviewed and a conceptual picture of housing related difficulties of single parents was developed. Demographic differences were emphasized to understand why various groups of single parents tend to encounter distinct and different housing problems.

The statistical data available in Canada for single parents was examined. A description of the housing situations was constructed and disaggregated on the basis of certain demographic and regional characteristics. The aim was to distinguish between groups of single parents in terms of their housing related concerns in order to begin to evaluate possible remedies and alternatives to existing problems and issues.

29512 Mason, D.L. and Austin, G.W. Shell Housing: Future Role in Housing Supply. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Halifax, N.S.: Planners Atlantic Limited, 1982. — Cal MH 82S33

The construction of partially completed homes for young couples dates well back in Nova Scotia history. This concept was utilized by governments and industry in supplying cooperative housing and shell housing.

In 1979, some members of the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada initiated a modest

29629 McClain, Janet and Doyle, Cassie. Women as Housing Consumers. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Ottawa: Canadian Council on Social Development, 1983. Cal MH 83W51

This report presents the appropriate social context in which analysis and construction of a statistical profile of Canadian women, using the most recent national data sources available, is made in an analysis of consumer needs. The profile includes family and household composition, the income position of women by age and type of household, labour force participation and responsibility for children, as well as housing tenure status, housing condition and shelter cost for women by type of household.

29942 Miron, John R. The Decline of the Large Household: Implications for Housing Policy. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Toronto: University of Toronto, The Centre for Urban and Community Studies, 1983. HD 7305 A3M565

One of the manifestations of the changing housing demands of Canadians has been the shrinking size of a typical household. This shrinkage has meant that the number of households (or equivalently the number of occupied dwellings) has risen faster than the population. In 1956, a population of 1 000 persons in Canada was typically accommodated in 245 dwellings. By 1981, it took 340 dwellings to house the same population. This implies that a stable, or even declining population can still require net additions to an existing housing stock: an important implication for housing policy. Housing policy issues are also raised by the question of whether the existing housing stock is adequate for the new smaller household.

27763 Murray, Charlotte C. Approval Process for Applications Related to the Rehabilitation of Existing Buildings. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. [Vancouver]: The Iredale Partnership, 1983. Cal MH 83A66

The need for preserving our existing building resources is no longer a matter for argument. Regulations affect the process of obtaining the necessary approvals to make the preservation of old buildings possible. The many independent sources of regulations are areas of the building rehabilitation process that are undergoing review and revision at this time in Vancouver and British Columbia.

Against a background overview of the total process leading to the satisfactory completion of a renovation or rehabilitation project, this paper illustrates the effect of the regulations on the process.

The paper concludes with some observations regarding the shifts in the regulating methods and procedures that suggest a positive step toward the rational accomplishment of preservation.

Le but de ce projet est l'économie d'énergie en rénovant une maison. Les solutions proposées sont accompagnées de la rénovation de la maison "Tournesol" décrite ici. Elles seront ainsi directement appliquées dans la réalité. Notons que la rénovation de Tournesol représente une refonte complète de la maison, ce qui ne sera pas nécessairement toujours le cas. Dans l'exposé qui suit, l'accent a été mis principalement sur les aspects moins connus et cependant utiles dans le domaine qui nous occupe ici. C'est ainsi que pour l'isolation l'étude a traité surtout des applications possibles pour Tournesol et de sujets connexes ayant trait à l'humidification des sous-sols par exemple.

INSULATION/ISOLEMENT THERMIQUE

58776 Atlantic Provinces Economic Council. Evaluation of the Canadian Home Insulation Program in New Brunswick. Funded under the CMHC External Research Program. Halifax: The Council, 1983. — TH 1715 E85

The broad purpose of this project was to evaluate the socio-economic impact of the Canadian Home Insulation Program in New Brunswick. In carrying out this study, the researchers were interested in a number of wide ranging considerations, such as the characteristics of users of the CHIP program, the degree to which the program acted as an incentive to insulate, whether the CHIP program met its goal, and the impact the program has had on the suppliers of insulation.

Specifically, the study focuses on three major areas:
1. an analysis of CHIP grant recipients;
2. an analysis of insulation suppliers;
3. assessment of the success of the program.

Available from: HUDAC, 15 Toronto Street, 10th Floor, Toronto, Ontario, M5C 2E3.

The objectives of this study were:

1. To demonstrate new techniques evaluated in Phase II by utilizing the products and systems in a series of field trials.

2. To improve basement integrity by reducing heat loss and concurrently reducing moisture related problems.

3. To disseminate the information about test results and in particular to explain the positive findings of the programme to builders, tradesmen and others involved in housing production.

Impact psychosociologique et économique du bruit des autoroutes urbaines pour les secteurs résidentiels les plus proches. Rapport final. Subventionné dans le cadre du Programme de recherche extérieure de la SCHL. Québec: le Centre, 1982.

La présente recherche porte sur l'impact psycho-sociologique et économique de la circulation, et tout particulièrement des effets du bruit qu'elle produit pour les habitations voisines des autoroutes urbaines de la région de Québec.

Cette étude fait suite à une vaste enquête du Centre auprès des résidents voisins des autoroutes urbaines. Au cours de l'année 1980-81, à l'aide des réponses provenant de cette enquête générale, nous avons pu procéder à une étude détaillée de la pénétration du bruit dans les logements, pour 30 résidences de la région de Québec. Ce second travail de recherche a fait l'objet d'un premier rapport déposé en septembre 1981 et d'un rapport final remis en janvier 1982. Le présent document porte sur la compilation de l'ensemble des résultats de l'enquête et en particulier sur les aspects socio-économiques de l'impact des corridors de transport.

The purpose of this study was:

1. to undertake a national survey of stormwater impoundments in order to develop an inventory of individual ponds and municipal experiences;

2. to examine trends in pond characteristics and design;

3. to analyze data in order to evaluate the functions and multiple use of stormwater impoundments, and;

4. to discuss current maintenance and operation practices.

5515 Staton, R.T. Temagami Pressure Sewer System. Prepared for the Technical Research Division, Policy Development and Research Sector, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. [s.l.] MacLaren Engineers, 1982. Cal MH110 82T26

To be published as SCAT-13.

This report provides the results of a two-year monitoring program on a shallow-buried low-pressure sewer system for a community of 140 buildings in Temagami, Ontario.

Monitoring equipment was installed to record data on energy consumptions. Related power costs were calculated for heat-traced pipes and individual grinder pumping units. Pump cycles, ground temperatures, sewage flow, ambient temperature during cold weather, sewer main temperatures and sewer main pressures were also monitored. Results indicate that energy consumption is generally less than anticipated.

SITE PLANNING/AMÉNAGEMENT DU TERRAIN

15347 Aasen Associates Ottawa. Site Planning Criteria for High Density Housing. Final Report. Prepared for the Research Division, National Office, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, by Aasen Associates Ottawa with the IBI Group. Ottawa: The Associates, 1983. Cal MH110 83S36

The objective of this study was to develop criteria applicable to the site planning of high density housing. The study emerged from a need to assess CMHC's Site Planning Criteria NHA 5214 in terms of its compliance with the characteristics and constraints of high density housing.

A five-phase study process was set up to develop and re-assess the criteria on the basis of: secondary information in the literature; first-hand field research; the judgments of key actors involved in the site planning and development process; and the judgments of a variety of professionals. The study attempts to produce a comprehensive and practical series of site planning proposals which reflect CMHC's current policy thrusts, appropriate professional norms, and current and anticipated high density housing trends and needs in Canada.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES

BIBLIOGRAPHIES / BIBLIOGRAPHIES

Over the past year, the Reference Services Section of the Canadian Housing Information Centre has compiled a number of bibliographies on a variety of subjects related to housing or other areas of research undertaken by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. These bibliographies are a subject listing of our holdings on a given topic. They normally encompass only items available at the Canadian Housing Information Centre.

We have decided to make these bibliographies available to CMHC employees, researchers and non-CMHC institutions and researchers across Canada. These bibliographies are available free of charge.

L'année dernière, le Service de référence du Centre canadien de documentation sur l'habitation a dressé un certain nombre de bibliographies sur divers aspects du logement ou sur d'autres domaines de recherches menées par la Société canadienne d'hypothèques et de logement. Ces bibliographies sont des listes des ouvrages, articles, etc, que la bibliothèque possède sur un sujet donné. Elles se limitent habituellement aux ouvrages qui sont disponibles au Centre canadien de documentation sur l'habitation.

Nous avons décidé d'offrir ces bibliographies aux employés et aux chercheurs de la Société, ainsi qu'à tous les organismes et à tous les chercheurs du Canada. Toute personne qui en fera la demande pourra les obtenir gratuitement.

CHIC LOAN POLICY / LIGNE DE CONDUITE SUR LES PRETS DU CCDH

All items on these bibliographies, except for reference items, may be borrowed by CMHC employees across Canada. All others will have to negotiate an interlibrary loan with their university or institutional library using the CLA/ASTED Interlibrary loan code.

Tout employé de la Société, où qu'il soit au Canada, peut emprunter tout document figurant sur les bibliographies, à l'exception des ouvrages de référence. Les autres personnes ou organismes qui désirent emprunter un document du CCDH doivent s'adresser à la bibliothèque de leur université ou de leur organisme qui le leur obtiendra, à certaines conditions, grâce au service de prêts entre bibliothèques ASTED/CLA.
